Request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA)

I write in connection with your request for information, which was received by Nottinghamshire Police on 20/02/2013.

I wonder if you could answer a question based on the below hypothetical scenario:

1 - Would you consider a UK posted tweet accusing a person of unblemished character and without any criminal record or allegations made to the police or any other authority (ie innocent) of being a 'paedophile to be 'grossly offensive'?

2 - If more than 3 such tweets were posted would you consider this to be a 'course of harassment?'

3 - Would your police force take action, and if so what?

RESPONSE

Under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA) Nottinghamshire Police as a public authority are only required to disclose information when the criteria of Section 8 of the Act are met.

S 8 (1) In this Act any reference to a 'request for information' is a reference to such a request which-
(a) is in writing,

- (b) states the name of the applicant and an address for correspondence, and
- (c) describes the information requested.

In this instance you did not provide us with a full name, and requested consideration of a hypothetical scenario rather than specific information we hold so we are unable to provide an answer to your request.
